

B&A Energy Partners LLC

Using a simple approach to extract maximum value for sellers & buyers

What B&A Does

When deciding to sell your business, you need a partner that can seamlessly guide you through the process and extract maximum value while ensuring the buyer respects the legacy of the business you have built. The B&A Energy Partners team possesses over 100 years of combined experience in operations management specializing in acquisitions from both the buy side and the sell side.

History

B&A Energy Partners was founded by former industry executives who believe there is a better way to assist independent propane and heating oil companies in selling their business.

The B&A Energy team leverages their deep operations experience and their knowledge of acquisitions in this sector to provide assistance that is unparalleled in the industry. Having been on the buy and sell side of these transactions while employed by large and small companies alike, the B&A Energy team saw a need that was unfulfilled. This need was a team dedicated to the buyer and their needs, who understand the intricacies of this industry and can provide significantly more value to a seller than a traditional brokerage firm.
